WILL REGULATE OFFICE OF STREET COMM'S'R

City Council Is Determined To Systematize Method of Road Tax Collection Which Has Been Source Of Loss In Revenue.

Just now the council is hard after the regulation of the street department of the city's economical structure. For the last couple of months a probe into the books of the former street commissioner, and investigation of methods employed, has been the program of the city fathers. At the council meeting held Monday night according to previous instruction Street Commissioner Bowles, filed a complete inventory of tools, supplies, machinery, and all appurtenances, owned by the city on January 1st, 1911. The inventory showed that a large quantity of new supplies purchased last summer, are missing, and are lost to the city. Councilman Bergman reported to the council, that with councilman VanGilder, he had inspected the books of the retiring commissioner, also of the present incumbent. He found that Mr. Bowles is debtor to the city in the amount of $1.65, so far as the records showed which are kept by that officer. A total of $18.00 in cash is shown to have been collected by his predecessor no part of which was turned into the city treasury. In his report Bergman stated, that hitherto, there had been absolutely no system used in the matter of road taxes, their collection and credit. The commissioner had innumerable instances, collected $2.00 in cash from citizens, and instead of turning the cash into the city treasury, as is required by law, the officer would pay out the money in employment of men for working the roads. The inefficiency of the system is self evident. No record was kept of street laborers, so employed, and as a consequence, the city was liable to loss materially on the income from road taxes. The loss of tools, is accountable through the system of furnishing road laborers, with shovels etc., with which to execute their work in the employ of the city. Often times, tools so taken out, were never returned.

Proposes Reforms

Councilman Clizbe led the movement for reform in the street department, after the subject had been exhausted in discussion. Clizbe's plan, which will be adopted by the council is as follows:

First—At the beginning of each year, an inventory of the tools, etc., owned by the city shall be taken, and the same charged up to the street commissioner, who shall account for the same, at the expiration of the year, and be required to supply any missing tools. The commissioner in turn can be protected, by charging each laborer with tools taken out, which shall be accounted for, at the end of each day's work.

Second—The system of collecting road taxes must be completely revised. A record of each poll in the city will be kept, and each will be charged with the $2.00 tax, which will be stricken out upon the presentation of a receipt from the commissioner showing one day's labor, or the $2.00 in cash. All collections to be made to the city treasurer and all money collected to be deposited in the city treasury. In this manner the question of road taxes will be systematized, and the city will fear no loss from that source. The looseness with which the department has been conducted in former years has been a source of wonderment to many citizens.

The Apollo Club, which has been located in the Kuhn block, for the past fifteen months, is fitting up its main hall, into an up-to-date gymnasium. Every kind of athletic apparatus will be installed to make the equipment complete. A large triple horizontal bar apparatus, has just been installed, which occupies a floor space of 20x14 feet. Other gymnasium fixtures such as punching bag racks, trappe, swinging ropes, wrestling mats, etc., will be added to the present equipment. Under protest the city council allowed the bill of the state field accountants, for work done in examination of the reports of city treasurers past and present, in the amount of $335.35. The protest was made under instructions from City Atty. Hess, so that if the state accountants law is declared unconstitutional, the money so allowed may be recovered. At present a suit has been commenced in Starke county, which will test the constitutionality of the new law. The bill against the city, was originally charged up against the county, as prescribed by law, which in turn presented the bill to the corporation.

Shadow of New City Hall for Plymouth Now Looming

Coming events cast their shadows before them. The shadow of a new City Hall for Plymouth is becoming almost visible. In fact the council is seriously considering the purchase of a lot to be used for that purpose.

The lot south and adjacent to the present city hall, is the location which is most favorable to the governing body. Monday evening at the council meeting, councilman Clizbe, reported that the aforementioned piece of land, the property of Fred H. Kuhn, and that the same can be purchased for the sum of $1000, with easy terms.

"Gentlemen, I ask the council to investigate the proposition," said Clizbe, "because at the next meeting of this body, I will make a motion to purchase that lot." An informal discussion of the subject, met with unanimous favor throughout the council. Mayor Cleveland was absent from the city, and councilman Bergman presided as mayor Pro Tem. Councilman Swindell had been excused early in the evening, after the official business was transacted. VanGilder and Bowell were in favor of purchasing the lot on time. "The city cannot lose on the proposition of buying that lot," said Bowell, because even as an investment, the opportunity to sell at an advanced price, is golden. As a dealer in real estate, I know that price for the lot is more than reasonable, and would be heartily in favor of purchasing it." The lot has a frontage of sixty-eight feet.

Other Proposals

Councilman VanGilder proposed that a public toilet room with closets be constructed in the city, for the accommodation of visitors. Almost every other city the size of Plymouth has its court house located in the center of this city, which fills such requirements. But in Plymouth, with the county building far distant from the city, the proposition is a question.

The question of bill boards, which in some localities in the city are becoming a nuisance, was also discussed in council. The members put City Atty. Judge Hess through a cross fire of questions, as to what recourse the city might have, against the stationing of ungainly bill boards, at the edge of sidewalk, throughout the business and residence sections. Clizbe referred to a bill board on east Sophia street, which he deemed more than a nuisance. Here the papers are said to become loose, and fall on the sidewalk. Paste is spilled on the walks and make a disagreeable spot. Judge Hess said that the only recourse which the council might take, would be in prosecutions on the grounds of public nuisance. All of these discussions were continued until the next meeting of the council.
